

ABCD McManus Ministry Special Announcement – February 1, 2008

“Special Announcement” sounds exciting, doesn’t it?!

As you know we have a website (www.abcdmcmamus.com) where I try to keep our email and snail mail updates posted as well as some other things. However, it is rather difficult to share the majority of things that God is doing here in our lives and ministry through periodic updates. To bridge that gap of information and attention span, I’ve created a new blog that allows us to share photos and snippets of our daily/weekly experiences and current prayer requests. I realize we’re merely joining the zillions of blogs out there already, but if you have an active interest in our family and lives, I hope you’ll bookmark the location and come back to it as often as you can. It’s a work in progress but already up and running with several posts and photos. Also, there’s an important prayer request there which I just posted...I hope you’ll join us in prayer.

Here’s the address for “Knowing Your ABCDs”: <http://abcdmcmamus.blogspot.com/>

Your feedback and comments are welcome.

Serving Jesus in Mexico,

Alan for Beth, Cameron and Dayton McManus